Hoover Has Some Advice for Ex-Agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has some tips for ex-agents with a literary bent—and for those suffering middle-age spread.

Hoover told some 1,700 former agents Thursday that if they decide to write about the FBI, they should note that he doesn't insist on agents wiping their hands before speaking to him and he seldom stands on a platform during such conversations.

Finally, said Hoover, "only two men shot and killed John Dillinger, not 1,750."

The remarks, addressed to a meeting of the Society of Former Special Agents of the FBI, referred to what Hoover called myths that have appeared in books about the bureau.

The FBI director, head of the agency since 1924, chided overweight ex-agents.

"While I recognize many of the faces, I don't recognize the size of the bodies," he quipped. "The weight control program has obviously not been observed since you gentlemen left the bureau."

Among the former agents attending the convention, which ends Saturday, are five congressmen—Reps. H. Allen Smith, R-Calif., William T. Cahill, R-N.J., Omar Burleson, D-Tex., Ed Edmondson, D-Okla., and Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa.

Also on hand is one who remembers when Hoover wasn't the FBI's boss. He's Charles Jenkins of Calhoun, Md., who said he joined the bureau in 1913 and served under four chiefs before Hoover.

The association presented Hoover with a plaque and sterling silver tray. It was the first time his 50th anniversary as a Justice Department employee—which occurred last July 26—has been celebrated publicly.

by sheer numbers of warheads. McNamara did not describe how many warheads would form the deadly spearpoint of U.S. rockets, but he told Congress a new missile math is in order.

Numbers of individual missiles, he said in January, are no longer the proper way to measure strategic strength.

Without publicly detailing their capabilities, McNamara ordered into production the Air Force Minuteman III, which will be sunk in concrete-hardened firing silos, and the Navy's Poseidon—successor to the Polaris—which can be launched by submarine beneath the sea.

Sources have told The Associated Press the Minuteman III, a 6,300-mile-range missile, will carry three nuclear warheads, while the Poseidon will haul more than 10 warheads.

The latest Air Force missile may eventually comprise 60 per cent of the land ICBM force. Thirty-one of the Navy's 41 Polaris subs are being converted to Poseidon, which requires a larger launch tube.

These numbers make possible an adequate, if unofficial, projection of what the U.S. strategic missile force of the early 1970s will be. Sources say this is a fair picture:

—Air Force Minuteman III: 600 missiles, three warheads each, plus special packages of decoy warheads and penetration aids. Total 1,800 warheads.

—Air Force Minuteman II: 400 missiles, one warhead each with decoys and "pen-aids." Total: 400 warheads.

—Navy Poseidon: 31 submarines with 16 2,500-mile range Poseidons each, at least 10 warheads per missile. Total 4,960 warheads.

—Navy Polaris: 10 subs with 16 single-bomb missiles. Total 160 warheads.

—Grand total of land-based and submarine-launched warheads: 7,320.

Sources regard this figure as conservative.

According to this tabulation, more than 5,000 warheads will be Navy weapons.

Woman's Year in Election Predicted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — "This next election is going to be a woman's year," Mary Brooks, assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee, predicted Thursday of the 1968 elections.

"I think we are going to see thousands of women out working to carry a ticket next year as we have never seen before," Mrs. Brooks told a news conference, adding she believed women are more concerned about national politics than ever before.

She was one of 800 other women from 13 states who began to arrive in Little Rock for the 15th annual Republican woman's two-day conference for the southern region which opens Friday.

Convention speakers include Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida and Ray Bluff, GOP national chairman. Gov. and Mrs. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas greeted the women Thursday with a barbecue at the governor's farm northwest of here.

The delegates, who included Oklahoma Gov. Dewey Bartlett and former Oklahoma Gov. Henry Bellmon, toured the farm during the afternoon.

Thompson Has Resigned From State Highway

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — John Thompson, 65, general counsel for the state Highway Commission, said Thursday that he has resigned effective Nov. 1.

Thompson, who first began working for the state in 1934, said he plans to go into private practice with his son, Edgar, in Little Rock.

Through the years, Thompson has served as an assistant attorney general, welfare commissioner and as an attorney for the Public Service Commission.

Mackey said Peeks apparently was shot accidentally with a 22-caliber rifle while in the woods with three other teen-aged boys.

Mackey said that a 14-year-old boy told deputies that he was attempting to shoot over Peeks' head into a tree but that the bullet accidentally hit Peeks in the head.

Computer Says 10 States to Lose Seats

WASHINGTON (AP) — A computerized peek at the probable outcome of the 1970 census shows 10 states losing seats in the House of Representatives and 5 others picking up strength as a result.

California, which passed New York in population before the 1960s was half over, will increase its present 38-man delegation to 44 after the official count is made, according to Census Bureau projections.

And New York, after having had more representation than any other state since 1810, is not expected even to keep all its present 41 seats for the 1972 election. Figure New York for 40, the Census Bureau says.

Besides California, here are the states the computer thinks will gain representation: Florida, two new seats, and New Jersey, Texas and Arizona, one seat each.

But dividing up the seats in Congress is a see-saw operation. When one state's membership in the House goes up, another's must come down.

The cuts will be concentrated largely in the Midwest. The losers in the Census Bureau forecast are Pennsylvania, two seats; West Virginia, one; and these Midwestern states, each slated to give up one seat: Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Iowa and North Dakota.

In the case of Ohio, the computer is hedging, unable to decide whether the loss will be one seat or two.

Census Bureau estimates indicate the population gain for the whole country will be about 15 per cent, rising from 179 million in 1960 to 206 million in 1970.

2 Points Key to Blocking Out Enemy

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist North Vietnamese troops cannot come across the border zone to South Vietnam in force as long as U.S. troops hold two key strongpoints, Pentagon sources say.

This is cited as a chief reason for U.S. Marines to remain at Con Thien, a hilltop outpost under heavy Communist bombardment for a month, and at Gio Linh to the east.

"We've got to stay in those strong points as long as the North Vietnamese are inclined to come across in that area in force," one military expert said. Tactical, political and psychological reasons were advanced for retaining control of Con Thien, particularly hard hit in casualties, and Gio Linh.

A pullback to any depth from these forward positions would endanger certain supply bases supporting U.S. Marine forces and Route 9, an east-west road over which U.S. military units are supplied from the coast.

A withdrawal, possibly yielding this ground to the North Vietnamese, might shake the confidence of South Vietnamese in areas now under U.S. protection and also might raise some questions in the mind of the Thais, who are ever watchful for signs of a weakening of U.S. resolve to hold the line against communism in Asia.

Some sources said a withdrawal from the Con Thien sector might have an upsetting psychological impact in the United States.

Some officers suggested that the bombardment, mainly from artillery positions in the North Vietnamese half of the six-mile-wide demilitarized zone, might be intended to lure American ground forces up toward the Ben Hai River boundary and possibly into a trap.

About eight battalions of American and South Vietnamese infantry last May drove up into the southern half of the demilitarized zone close to the Ben Hai River.

They destroyed extensive Communist fortifications and mortar positions from which the enemy had been dropping rounds into Gio Linh and Con Thien.

American officers say the success of that operation was due largely to surprise—the North Vietnamese did not expect a U.S. ground move into the DMZ.

"It's apparent if we go in there again we'll be sacrificing surprise—we'll pay a price," a military planner said. "The enemy may be trying to draw us in now."

Seabag Held a Grenade

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The green sea bag was sent from a service man in Vietnam to a Baltimore address.

When investigator Edward D. Cusick of the U.S. Customs Office opened it, he found a parcel containing a Viet Cong hand grenade made of bamboo, a U.S. Army hand grenade and a triggering device.

The Baltimore police bomb squad defused the U.S. grenade Tuesday but summoned ordinance experts to handle the Viet Cong grenade, which had no percussion cap but contained wires inside the handle.

Don't Enjoy Being Critic, Says Senator

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said here Thursday he did not enjoy being a critic of the Johnson administration but that he felt it was his duty as a senator to speak out on policies with which he didn't agree.

"That's what the Senate really is for," Fulbright told the state convention of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees.

"It certainly wasn't the idea of the founding fathers that the Senate was just to be a rubber stamp and says 'amen' to anything the president said," Fulbright said.

Morton Will Give Support to Dirksen

By ROBERT GRAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thurston B. Morton says he's supporting Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen for chairman of the 1968 Republican platform committee despite their growing differences on Vietnam.

Between now and the convention, Morton said in an interview, he'll do his best to persuade Dirksen to withdraw the steadfast support the minority leader has been giving President Johnson on the war issue.

Morton's goal is a Republican campaign plank offering voters what he terms a workable alternative to the Johnson policies on Vietnam.

Morton, of Kentucky, was a GOP national chairman and State Department official under President Dwight D. Eisenhower and is considered one of the party's most influential senators.

He proposed in a major speech Wednesday that the United States halt the bombing of North Vietnam, end search and destroy missions by ground forces and concentrate on defense of coastal and population centers in South Vietnam.

At the same time, he proposed increased efforts to bring about negotiations with Hanoi.

Dirksen commented that those steps would not cause the Communists to stop fighting and that previous U.S. attempts to bring about negotiations had been rebuffed.

Morton had supported Johnson on the war but moved away from that position the past several months.

Morton's speech was one of several in recent days in which Republican Senate moderates have intensified their opposition to the Johnson war policies.

Other critics have been Sens. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, Jacob K. Javits of New York, Charles H. Percy of Illinois and Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts.

Morton said there was time before the convention next August to reach an agreement on a Vietnam platform position.

"I'll be doing my best before then to persuade Sen. Dirksen" to support a GOP Vietnam policy in competition with that of Johnson, Morton said.

"I don't give up very easily," he commented, then added: "And Ev doesn't give up very easily."

Morton declined to speculate on the possibility of a head-on collision between Dirksen and the war critics.

As he has in the past to inquiries about whether he is challenging Dirksen's leadership, Morton praised the minority leader as "one of the great legislative leaders in history."

"We agree on 95 per cent of the issues," Morton said, adding he would oppose any move to challenge Dirksen's position.

Pulaski Bar Group Blamed by Purcell

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell praised the Pulaski County Bar Association Thursday for its effort to increase salaries in judiciary branch by supporting a constitutional amendment, and said there should be an amendment to increase the salary of the attorney general.

The state's lawyers should sponsor an amendment for the attorney general's salary increase, Purcell told the association, and the attorney general should not be allowed to have a private practice during his term of office.

"The office is and should be a fulltime job," Purcell said. He said it had been fulltime for him since he took over in January.

Purcell said the state of New York pays its attorney general $48,000 a year and that most of the other states pay him at least $20,000 a year.

"I don't give up very easily," he commented, then added: "And Ev doesn't give up very easily."

Morton declined to speculate on the possibility of a head-on collision between Dirksen and the war critics.

As he has in the past to inquiries about whether he is challenging Dirksen's leadership, Morton praised the minority leader as "one of the great legislative leaders in history."

"We agree on 95 per cent of the issues," Morton said, adding he would oppose any move to challenge Dirksen's position.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — From her superbly coiffed, ash-blond wig to her gilded toes—not just the nails, the entire toes—she appeared every inch the movie star.

The inches still read 37-23-37, as they did when Kim Novak was a brand new love goddess to replace the recalcitrant Rita Hayworth at Columbia Pictures. That was a decade ago, but at 34 Kim is making her first film since the disastrous "Kiss Me, Stupid," 2½ years ago.

She appeared on MGM's Stage 18 as a movie star should—glamorously encased in a tent-like outfit of East India print, sheer enough to reveal the outlines of her famous frame. The new vehicle is "The Legend of Lylah Clare," in which for the second time she plays a film queen; in 1957 she appeared to little acclaim as "Jeanne Eagels."

This time she enacts Lylah Clare, a legendary blonde of Hollywood's 1930s who died mysteriously, plus Lylah's look-alike who becomes a star herself by portraying the tragic star in a modern film biography.

"I have been on both sides," says Kim reflectively, "so I can identify with both characters."

Kim returns with the trappings of the star, notably the wooden baffle that shields the entrance to her dressing room from view of the casual workers on the movie set. The baffle, quite naturally, is painted lavender, the trademark color that became part of the Novak mystique.

In conversation she remains unchanged from the breathless beauty who confided to gossip columnists her romances with Aly Khan, Rafael Trujillo Jr., Frank Sinatra, director Richard Quine, and others. Her latest flame, she admitted, was Joel Thomas, operator of a restaurant and bar in California's Big Sur country where she maintains her home.

She talked openly about the misfortunes that have befallen her in the past three years. They were enough to dismay the most cheerful of performers: marriage and divorce from English actor Richard Johnson; a horse fall that removed her from the cast of "13"; two major automobile accidents that however, did get into its top-20 list.

Most popular programs of that week, according to the Nielsen projection of choices by 580 homes, were CBS's Friday and Thursday night movies, NBC's "Bonanza," and Saturday night movies, CBS's "Family Affair" and "Cameo Pyle," NBC's Tuesday night movies, CBS's "Andy Griffith Show" and "Lucy Show," and ABC's "Bewitched."

New programs in the top 20 were ABC's "The Flying Nun," NBC's "High Chaparral," and "The Jerry Lewis Show," CBS's "Carol Burnett Show" and NBC's "The Mothers-in-Law."

The survey, too early in the season to be conclusive, does suggest that some new shows are already in trouble. At the bottom of the list of more than 80 programs were ABC's "Good Company," "Legend of Custer," and "Off to See the Wizard," and NBC's "Accidental Family."

RESENTS HAVING TO DIET

Dear Helen: I'm not bad looking, for 32, and at one time had a pretty good figure. Now, after three babies, I'm about 40 pounds overweight.

This seems to have changed my husband's whole personality. He's not the loverboy he used to be and he's always joking about my figure, to everyone. I laugh to keep from crying.

I'm now going to a "slim club" but my heart's not in it. I can't help but think I didn't get in this shape by myself, even though three boys are well worth it. In my book, a man takes his wife for better or for worse, and I don't like him any less because he's going bald.

I resent having to starve and do without all the things that make for a happy marriage, just to get my old lover back, —T.F.L.

Dear T: I gather from your last sentence that you may love food more than your husband. For Pete's sake, stop blaming him and his children for the shape you're in and think slim before you become a blimp! He's worried about your health as well as you looks and if he'd exchange tact for teasing, I'm sure you'd see it his way. —H

Dear Helen: I had a wonderful marriage until my husband's two brothers came back from the Navy.

Both are bachelors. They want him to go out on the town with them, and when I persuaded him to stay home, they ganged up on me. First one and then the other gave me the sweet-talk business. I know now they are trying to prove I'd be untrue because they told my husband lies about how I shined up to them. I didn't want to cause a rift in his family so I didn't mention their advances and that was my big mistake. Now my husband wonders if I was trying to hide something.

They want him back as a part of their old wild gang and are trying to get me out of the picture. I heard from his sister that they broke him up with two other girls the same way, before he met me.

What can I do to save my marriage? — BRIDE OF EIGHT MONTHS

Dear Bride: Enlist your sister-in-law's help, and persuade your husband that a job-transfer to a distant city would do wonders for his career and your marriage. If he isn't completely dominated by brothers, I'm sure he'll agree. —H

Dear Helen: I was interested in your correlation between legalizing marijuana and the repeal of prohibition.

Those of us who appreciated the curtailment of liquor were told that "repeal" would mean less drinking. They argued that people drank because they were told they couldn't, and that with liquor available everywhere, the urge to drink would diminish. Well, we now see the sad result:

Social drinking that begins with the noon lunch, the "after 5:00" drinkers who can't make it by the first bar; the teenagers who attend any school function well-lit; the maimed and killed on the highways due to drunken drivers; homes where there's sure to be a bottle, but no shoes for the kids; and the women who think it's the thing to drink and made merry with anyone available. We note there's an AA group in almost every town, and alcoholism is a major disease these days, probably causing more lost work-hours than the common cold. Less drinking? No! And we knew it.

The really irritating thing, however, is the know-it-all in every group who invariably remarks about the dim, dismal failure of "prohibition." To me, it was an experiment that succeeded. At any rate, "repeal" has also failed. —JO

Houston Is Near Ranking Nationally

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Houston Cougars will be seeking to advance further in the national rankings while the Miami Hurricanes will be looking to reclaim a position among the rated teams in key games tonight that kick off another big college football weekend.

Houston, No. 3 in the latest Associated Press poll after its stunning 37-7 victory over Michigan State, takes on Wake Forest in the Astrodome, Miami, ranked eighth before being upset by Northwestern last week, plays Penn State in the Orange Bowl.

Saturday's action is highlighted by a meeting between top-ranked Notre Dame and 10th-ranked Purdue on the Boilermakers' field. Second-place Southern California faces Michigan State in Lansing, Mich.

The Cougars are rated four touchdowns favorites to beat Wake Forest which lost its first two games to Duke and Clemson. It is the strongest role as favorites in Houston history and coach Bill Yeoman is trying to recapture his charges against overconfidence.

Houston, 2-0, again will depend on the explosive running of Warren McVea and the passing of Dick Woodall. McVea was named The Associated Press' back-of-the-week after rushing for 155 yards against Michigan State. Woodall chipped in with touchdown passes of 77 and 76 yards against the Spartans.

Coach Bill Tate of Wake Forest said his team's pass defense has been among his major disappointments. The opposition has completed 16 of 29 for 306 yards.

A crowd of about 50,000 is expected to witness what figures to be a high scoring game in the Orange Bowl. Penn State dropped a 23-22 decision to Navy last week. The Hurricanes moved the ball well in losing to Northwestern, but their attack bogged down with fumbles, interceptions plus an illegal pass.

Penn State will be without the services of tackle John Ebersole, a defensive regular. He suffered a knee sprain in the Navy game and will be sidelined for several weeks.

Western Michigan is at Brigham Young in another game tonight.

Purdue opened with a 24-20 triumph over Texas A&M last week. Notre Dame scored a 41-8 victory in its first game. The Irish captured the national championship last season.

Michigan State is determined to regain the prestige it lost in the Houston setback. However, Southern Cal comes off two impressive victories, 49-0 over Washington State and 17-13 over highly-regarded Texas.

In other games involving teams rated among the first 10, UCLA, No. 4, meets Washington State, Georgia, No. 5, plays Clemson, Nebraska, No. 7, takes on Minnesota, Texas, No. 8, plays Texas Tech, and Alabama, No. 9, goes against Southern Mississippi.

Sixth-ranked Colorado is not scheduled.

Finley Ready to Leave Kansas City

By FRANK CRAWFORD
Associated Press Sports Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Charles O. Finley told the city fathers Thursday that he has had enough of Kansas City and wants to take his American League baseball club and get out.

The city insists major league baseball should not turn its back on a city that has endured a last-place club for much of 13 years, a mule mascot, minor league players and antics of an owner who has chosen to abandon a community that voted cash to build a 45,000-seat stadium with a roofed playing field.

The City Council is going to an Oct. 18 meeting of the American League prepared to convince club owners that Kansas City has shown support commensurate with the Athletics' record, beginning in 1955 when 1,300,000 paid to watch a sixth-place club—the highest the A's have finished here.

Not the least of their arguments will be the 69 per cent vote for the Sports Complex with separate stadiums for baseball and football. Finley who has threatened to move to half a dozen cities since buying the franchise in 1961, ignored the bond election.

Rumor has it that the solution will be a move by Finley and expansion of the major leagues into Kansas City next year or the near future.

Baseball fans say they would like for the A's to stay, minus Finley. They argue the club has some fine young talent that has been rushed into the major leagues too soon but eventually will be winners. But Finley has said he won't sell.

cuse, the Orangemen will turn back the unbeaten West Virginia Mountaineers, 16-10. Meanwhile out at Lafayette, Ind., Terry Hanratty and friends will bomb Purdue. We see it Notre Dame 33, Purdue 20.

There are two thrilling engagements slated for the south with Tennessee and Auburn bumping heads at Knoxville, and Clemson playing host to powerful Georgia. Prof. A. Nonymous, our southern representative, pegs Tennessee and Clemson as the winners.

Out at Spokane, it will be UCLA in an easy 28-6 triumph

Rain Delays; Detroit Low on Hurlers

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The weatherman, throwing his delaying splitter at Detroit, has raised the distinct possibility that you or I will wind up pitching for the Tigers in their last game of the regular season.

The opening game of Detroit's last-ditch series with California was rained out Thursday night and now the Tigers—still in contention in the American League's up-tight pennant race—face a two-night doubleheader today and single games Saturday and Sunday.

Joe Sparna was to pitch Thursday and, with Earl Wilson scheduled today and Mickey Lolich on Saturday, Sparna conceivably could have come back with two days' rest for the finale Sunday.

But with Sparna's turn moved up to today's first game, he's out of the picture after that. Denny McLain, who dislocated a couple of toes last week, says he's ready, but Manager Mayo Smith is skeptical. And that exhausts the list of Tiger starters.

The forecast in Detroit today, by the way, was for rain, setting up the intriguing possibility of consecutive doubleheaders on Saturday and Sunday. The Tigers can clinch at least a tie for the flag by sweeping the four-game set.

In the only other game involving the four pennant contenders tonight, Chicago is at home to Washington. The White Sox are right down at the end of the stick; one more defeat and their chances of even tying for the pennant are gone.

Minnesota, in first place by a game, and Boston, tied with Detroit for second, get a second straight day of rest before opening their climactic two-game set in Boston Saturday.

There was baseball action Thursday, all in the National League where Philadelphia edged San Francisco 2-1, Cincinnati swept a doubleheader from Atlanta 8-0 and 9-1 and Los Angeles beat New York 3-0. St. Louis and Chicago were rained out.

Reliever Dick Farrell got Willie Mays to ground into a double play with the bases loaded in the ninth, saving the Phillies' victory over the Giants.

Jim Maloney shut out the Braves on four hits in the opener, striking out 12, and Sammy Ellis scattered seven hits in the nightcap in the Reds' double-header victory.

Claude Osteen held the Mets to five hits and tripled in two runs to break a scoreless tie in the seventh inning.

Hope Juniors Lose to Camden

Hope Faces Tough Foe in Malvern

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer
Friday the Hope Bobcats face the strongest team in 4-AA, the the Cats have to play the game under the lights in Malvern at 7:30 p.m.

Malvern has a 2-1-1 record overall, and a 1-0-1 mark in conference. They are big and tough, and they run the "bifocal" offense.

This offense, sometimes referred to as the Double T, is extremely versatile and run from an innumerable amount of sets. This factor confuses the opposing defense, and the defense must weaken itself by spreading around to accompany the whole line-up. With a team average of 171 pounds per man, the Leopards also sport an ultra-tough defense of their own.

The "bifocal" which head Coach David Alpe truly believes in, is almost totally built around faking backs. In the backfield they have a quarterback, a shortback, a wing back, and a running back. Senior Eddie Wright is every thing a coach would want in a quarterback. At 160 pounds, he is a fine runner who loves to carry the pigskin, and he has a good strong arm for throwing the ball.

The short back, who often lines up beside the quarterback, is Bobby Brannum. He is a good fader and pass receiver, and his speed earned him the position of returning punts and kickoffs. The wingback is Ernie Cox, a 155-pounder who can be an outside threat.

Probably the workhorse of the Leopards backfield is Royce Pennington, a returning starter from last year and a possible candidate for All-State. Pennington scales 180 pounds, but runs like he weighs 200, and can easily carry the ball 20 times in a game. Now for the line.

Big from tackle to tackle, the linemen also possess good quickness. The Malvern line average is around 180 from tackle to tackle, and they should be led by Bruce Eflord, a 200-pound tackle. The other starters are unknown to me, but have proven themselves well thus far in the season.

There is a possibility that the Leopards could be weak in the given up many yards passing to opponents. Still, the boys from Malvern will be trying hard to get back on the winning road, after falling to non-conference team Catholic High of Little Rock 14-7 last Thursday.

It will be the conclusion of a good week of preparation for the Bobcats, after being upset last week by Smackover. Tonight the Hope Bobkittens make the journey to Camden for a 7:30 game see a little more in a game," Hart took over the No. 1 quarterback spot when the Army called up Charley Johnson. The youngster had less than one quarter of game experience from his rookie year. He's shown signs of being a good mechanical quarterback with a cunning mind, but he's taken his lumps too.

"Too many people are expecting miracles from Jim," Warner said. "He's making normal progress, and we're very happy to date. Each week he seems to

Bobkittens Suffer Loss at Camden

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Unable to defend against a strong passing attack, the Hope Bobkittens suffered their second straight defeat, falling before the Camden Panther Cubs 19-7 last night at Camden's Coleman Field.

Fighting a losing battle on the statistics as well as the scoreboard, the Bobkittens were not as potent as the Cubs. The Kittens have lost several starters to injuries lately, though, and this factor showed considerably last night.

Camden didn't waste any time hitting the board, as QB Jim Foyil fired a home run 47-yard pass to end Chip Rayford for the opening score. The PAT was good, and with 4:48 left in the first period Camden led 7-0.

Able to move the ball rather freely, the Cubs hit the paydirt again early in the second period. This time it was Foyil passing, firing a 10-yard strike to Bill Meek for the TD. Point after was missed, and with 7:20 left in the half Hope trailed 13-0.

Throughout the rest of the half the teams played on fairly even terms, until Camden took possession late in the half. The Cubs rolled for two first downs, but time was running out fast.

On third down at midfield Camden called a timeout. They came up with the old Texas power sweep, and wingback Steve Morris turned the corner. Morris flew down to around the Hope 30, where he was hemmed in and trapped. There Bill Meek appeared, Morris tossed him a lateral, and Meek was gone for the touchdown. The extra point was no good, and at halftime Camden led 19-0.

The second half was contested mainly between the twenties, with the powerful Cubs maintaining a good ball control game. The third quarter was scoreless, but late in the game the "never say die" Bobkittens started to drive. Aided by a pass interference penalty and a 15-yard gain on a draw play, the Kittens took a first and goal at the Camden two. Here was Hope's turn to score, as Cary Don Jones bucked the line for the score. PAT was good, and the Kittens had lost 19-7 to a big Camden team.

Jones led the Hope ball carriers with 10 carries for 58 yards; he was followed by Sidney Waller, who ran 8 times for 34 yards. Stan James also had 18 yards on seven trips. Bill Meek led all rushers for Camden with 12-71. The Bobkitten line turned in a normal performance, but as can be expected these boys have their weaknesses, and are striving hard to amend them.

Coaches Corner
By FREDDIE GLAZE
Last week was the official start of college football and with our game in Malvern tonight we find our season at its half-way point.

After last week's loss to Smackover here in Hope by a 8-0 score, the coaching staff had alot to be thankful for. At a staff meeting immediately following the game our sports writer, Ralph Rounton, called me to inform us that both Crossett and Warren met defeats at the hands of Magnolia and Fairview respectively. What this meant to us was that once again we were given a chance to regain first place in the conference by beating Malvern. At Warren tonight Crossett or Warren will drop out of contention unless there is a tie, then I don't know. Magnolia will play Smackover and a defeat by Magnolia would boost their conference record to 2-1-1.

A few other items we felt good about was our defense unit effort. In the first half we were able to hold Smackover to only 6 yards and 114 yards total offense for the game.

A shift of Mickey Allen from linebacker to noseman and Rodney Jones from noseman to tackle improved our team speed. Both Mickey and Rodney made less tackles at their new positions but this was expected. While carrying out their new assignments they allowed Jimmy Alford, who made 9 assisted tackles and 5 unassisted, and Larry McWilliams, who made 7 assisted and 7 unassisted to turn in the best performance of any linebacker we've had in some time. David Fincher and John Henley continued to improve and the defensive secondary did not allow Mike Holloway a completed pass.

I felt that our defensive played good enough to win but we must find a scoring punch to be a winning ball club.

On Monday of this week our kids came to practice with their minds set on this weeks ball game at Malvern. All the boys know what we are up against and have seen them on film. They realize that they will be the largest team we play plus the fact that our defensive unit has not been tested by a top rated ball club such as Malvern.

With a few changes in our offense we feel that we have a better opportunity to move the football. Both of our quarterbacks will start in the offensive backfield and they are a fine combination working together. Our offense must score and we have added a field goal threat in Dwight Galloway.

Tonight it will take a great effort from each individual but, I truly believe that each boy is ready to put forth the effort.

Hoople Hits Three Colossal Upsets; Sees Spartans Stunning the Trojans

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE Upset Champion

Greetings, friends! The Hoople System has done it again!

Yes, dear readers, once more your favorite correspondent has proved his title as the Upset Champion is not a spurious one!

Last week I gave you not one but "three upsets of epic proportions—Oklahoma State over Arkansas, Northwestern to shock Miami, and Houston to surprise mighty Michigan State!" And that—kaff-kaff—is exactly what happened!

Indeed, our overall percentage last Saturday was an astronomical 780, with 32 correct, but 9 wrong and 1 tie in the 42 major contests—um-kumph!

Never one to rest on his laurels, I have some astonishing selections for you this week.

Watch for Duffy Daugherty's Michigan State stalwarts to rise phoenix-like from the ashes of defeat to stun invading Southern California. I predict the Spartans will prevail over the undefeated Trojans by a 17-14 count!

Thinks Dallas Will Win in Pro Play

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Dallas, Baltimore, Kansas City and San Diego should be the only all-winning pro football clubs after Sunday's 12-game schedule in the National Football League and American Football League.
According to the view from here the Los Angeles Rams, San Francisco 49ers, and Oakland Raider will suffer their first defeats this weekend.

A 9-3 week brought the season record to 17-5-1 (12-3-1 in the NFL and 5-2 in the AFL). Let's take another flyer, all games are Sunday.

NFL

Green Bay 30, Atlanta 0—
Time for Packers to get up a head of steam against Falcons' po-rorous defense. After tie and squeaker with Bears, Pack should not need Don Chandler to win this one. Hard to believe Green Bay has thrown the passer only once all year. Maybe they'll take it out on Randy Johnson. Bart Starr should get well.

Minnesota 14, Chicago 10—An upset. This is a toughie. Two nothing clowns, Gale Sayers usually has big day against Vikings but Bear offense pitiful so far and Minnesota not much better.
Take the Vikings on chance Joe Kapp may get attack rolling.

Cleveland 21, New Orleans 10
—Two more nonwinners. De-Browns should win on running of Leroy Kelly. Could be close.
Detroit 27, St. Louis 22—
Lions' passing game ordinary, but Mel Farr makes them tops in running. Lions won preseason game 21-7 Sept. 8. Unless Jim Bakken kicks seven more field goals, Lions should have edge.

Dallas 28, Los Angeles 20—
This is the big one and the pick here is Dallas in upset. Cowboys looked strong with Don Meredith doing a fine job against Giants. Rams' defense has allowed only one touchdown, a kickoff return, but their offense will have trouble with Cowboys' front four. Rams won preseason tilt 20-6, Aug. 12.

Washington 35, New York 28—Lasttime they met in regular season Washington won. Redskins won preseason game 31-13 at Raleigh, N.C. Aug. 19.
Charley Taylor, John Love and Bobby Mitchell all can't be double covered. Sonny Jurgensen will find the holes in Giant defense. Fran Tarkenton should have a big day, too, in a free-scoring contest, but Skins' line will make him scramble.

Philadelphia 24, Pittsburgh 13
—A week ago the pick would have been the Steelers but loss of Bill Nelson forces Bill Austin to fall back on untied Kent Nix,
a Packer taxi man last year.
Tough break for Pittsburgh.
Eagles have beaten them five of the last six but that Steeler pass defense will make Norm Sneed wary.

Baltimore 28, San Francisco
20—Two more unbeaten teams.
Cody Praised for Play in
First Game

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—
Arkansas coach Frank Broyles says sophomore tailback Russell Cody was properly "indoctrinated" last week against Oklahoma State iniversity.
Offensive backfield coach
Johnny Majors was pleased with Cody's performance.
And Cody himself was fairly well pleased with his 33 carries for 140 yards. It was a record number of yards for an Arkansas sophomore in his first game.

"I would have been more pleased if we had scored a touchdown," said Cody. "Nothing got hurt except my feelings.
I never enjoyed anything so much in my life as I did playing in that ball game."

Cody said he weighed 182 pounds before Saturday's game.
"My pants were tight when I went out on the field," he said.
"By the time the game ended
I could hardly keep them up.
I weighed 175 Sunday."

Cody said he felt that the Razorbacks would probably use wingback David Dickey more Saturday against Tulsa.
"I hope we do anyway," Cody said. "Those guys are huge."
Cody said he didn't expect to carry the ball 33 times but that he didn't mind.

"For a first ball game I thought Russell did a very good job," said Majors. "His overall work was real good."
Cody almost went the distance on two separate occasions. Did that surprise Majors?
"No, he's a good broken field runner," he said.

Colts have jinx on 49ers, winning nine straight since 1962.
Big game for both clubs in Coastal Division. Balanced 49er attack will pressure Colts' secondary, but John Unitas has their number.

AFL

Kansas City 21, Oakland 17—
Another battle of all winners.
Chiefs won preseason game 48-0 but Raiders have come on strong, allowing only seven points in two games. Oakland's pass rush will keep Len Dawson hopping but Mike Garrett and Curt McClinton give Kansas City the edge. One of toughest games on the program.

Houston 24, Denver 14—Joe Namath picked Denver apart last week. Houston's passing poor so far but Broncos have given up 20 touchdowns in four games. A big day for Hoyle Granger.

San Diego 14, Buffalo 10—How can you figure the Bills? Sturdy defense has given up 60 points in three games and attack has produced only 23.
Lance Alworth makes Chargers choice in tight one.

New York 28, Miami 7—Na-math is on the beam but Matt Snell still is out. Dolphins have quarterback trouble with first John Stofa and then Bob Griese racked up. Griese expects to play but Dolphins may have to go to Rick Norton.

Boston has the bye this week.

Harkey Asks Hearing Be Dismissed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Commissioner John Norman Harkey
asked the state Supreme Court
Thursday to prevent Pulaski Chancellor Kay L. Matthews of Little Rock from hearing an injunction filed against him by the Savings Guaranty Corporation.

On Aug. 22, Harkey issued an order restricting the corporation's activities, but delayed formal entry of the order for two weeks.

On Aug. 22, the corporation bought suit to prohibit Harkey from entering the formal order.
Harkey said chancery court didn't have jurisdiction in the case and asked that the suit be dismissed.

However, Matthews held that he did have jurisdiction and directed Harkey to delay his order pending the outcome of a full hearing.

Harkey contended Thursday that, as insurance commissioner, he holds a quasi-judicial po-

There is only one way to play some bridge hands. With others declarer has his choice of several lines of attack.

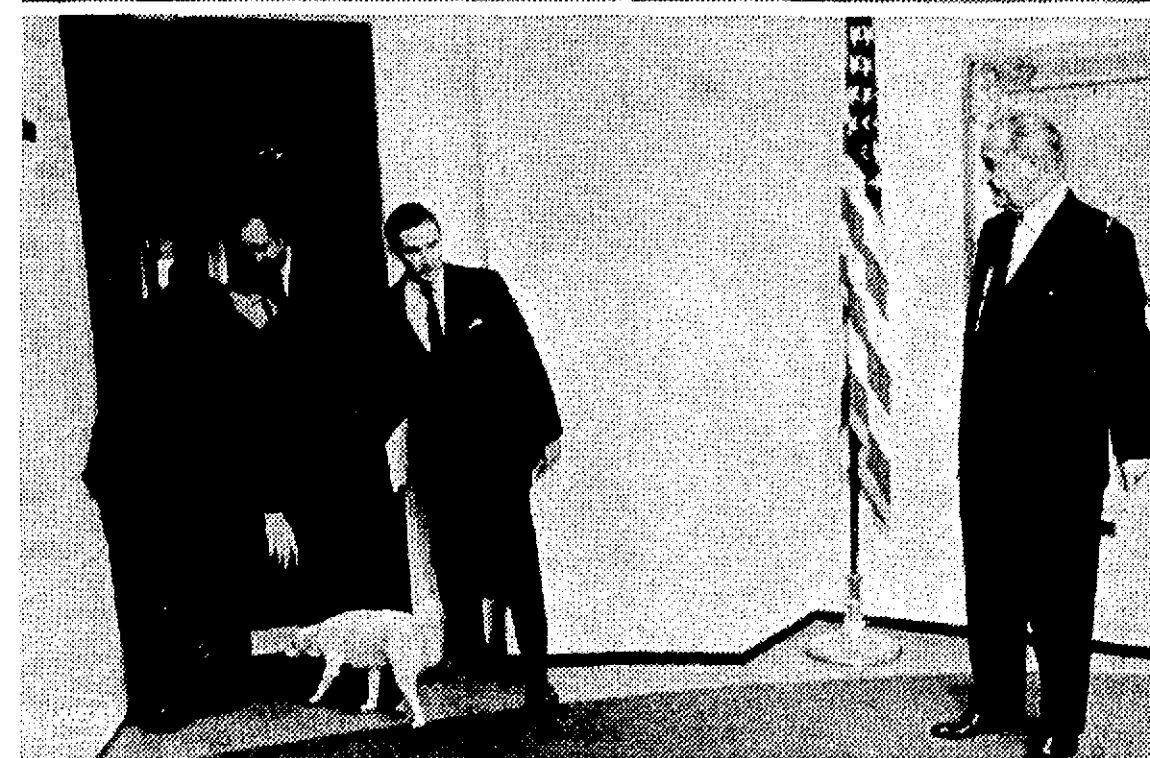

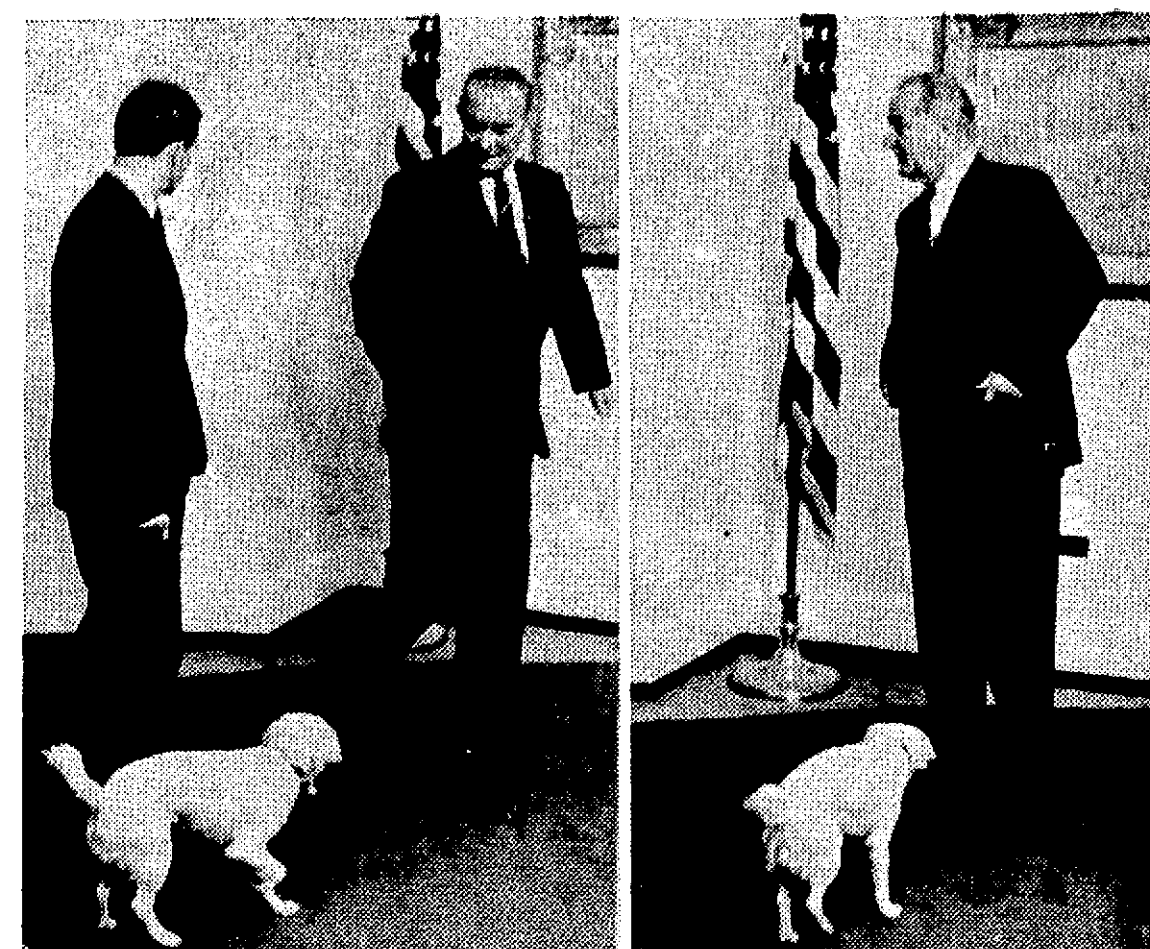

West led out three high spades on this hand. South trumped the third with one of dummy's high trumps and started his campaign by playing two rounds of trumps. Trumps broke evenly and left South free to devote his full attention to the main problem of getting away with the loss of only one club trick.

There was a simple way to play that suit. He could lead a club from dummy and play East for the king. The simple play is usually the best but South felt that West, who had bid, was far more likely to hold the king of clubs than East.

South saw also that he had a sure way to make the hand if West held this king. Do you see his sure line of play?

South started proceedings by getting rid of his diamonds. He cashed his king and dummy's ace and ruffed dummy's last diamond.

Then he led his last spade and discarded a club from dummy. This put West on lead with three tricks in but helpless. Dummy still held two trumps and the ace and one club while South held one trump and three clubs to the queen. A club lead would be allowed to run around to the queen while a lead of the last spade would allow South to discard his last small club from dummy and trump in his own hand.

Of course this throw-in play would have failed miserably if East held the king of clubs but it was sure to work if West held it.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Nails Are Reinforced By Fingernail Polish

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My nails are flexible and chip and peel easily. What can I use to make them strong?

A—This condition is sometimes caused by nail polish remover or detergents. Since nail polish reinforces your nails you should apply one or more coats without removing the polish already on your nails. Nail hardeners are available but they usually contain formaldehyde and may cause severe irritation of the adjacent cuticle and skin. For this reason they must be used with caution.

Q—What would cause the nails on both my big toes to rot away? What can be done for this?

A—The most likely causes are ringworm and other infections, exposure to harmful chemicals and diabetes. The treatment would depend on the cause.

Q—What causes numerous white spots on the fingernails? Why do they clear up as you grow older?

A—These white spots are due to a small amount of air between the nail bed and the nail. The air gets there by means of chemical changes in the nail bed that are not well-understood. Why they should be more prevalent at one age than another is anybody's guess.

Q—Around my cuticle the skin is red and swollen. I have discovered that this is caused by the cleansing powder with chlorine bleach I have been using. Nothing I have tried has cleared up the infection. What would you suggest?

A—Wear cotton-lined rubber gloves when you scour. Your doctor may want to try an antibiotic, such as nystatin or amphotericin, to clear up the infection.

Q—I have been advised to get an electronic air filter for my home. Do you advise it?

A—Electrostatic plate filters are effective in removing dust and pollen from the air but, because they generate toxic amounts of ozone, they should be equipped with activated charcoal. The latter will absorb the ozone which should not be allowed to reach a concentration of more than 0.1 parts per million in the air.

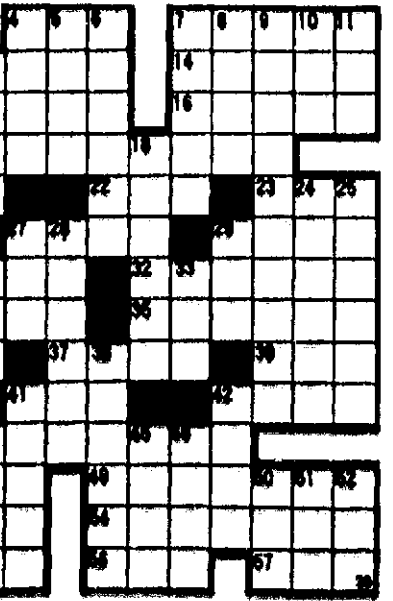

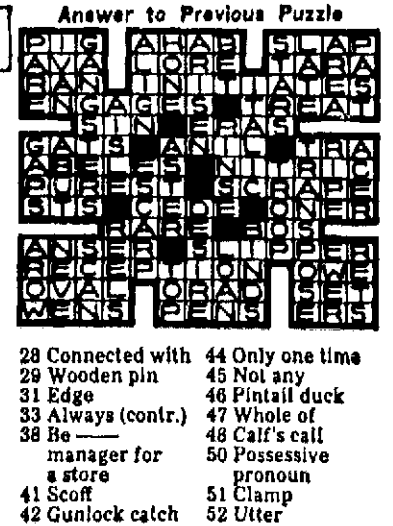

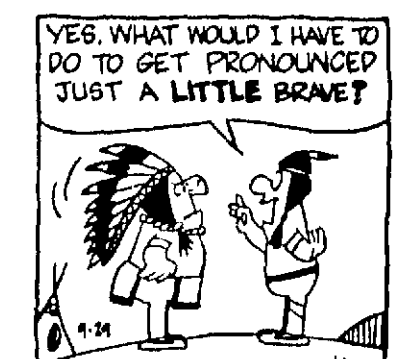

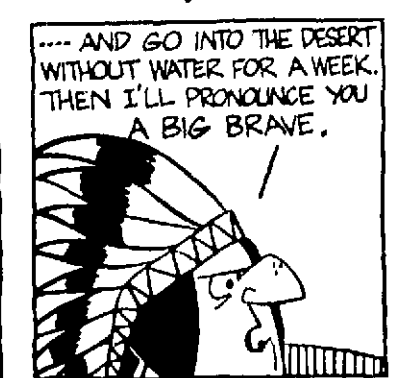

I do not advise such a filter unless there is a specific medical reason for it. Such as

Fgn. Affairs Are Always a Problem

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidents all the way back got their lumps for something they did in foreign affairs, even though it looked dandy at the time. People and politicians turned sour later.

Good examples are Presidents Johnson and Harry S. Truman. Truman neither asked nor got congressional authorization for going into the Korean War. But Congress fully backed him by voting what he needed for the war.

Frustration set in as the war dragged on and debt increased. Clubbing Truman then became a hobby, particularly in Congress where Republican Sen. Robert A. Taft complained Truman had no right under the Constitution to do what he did.

Now Johnson is getting the Truman treatment for the war in Vietnam although, unlike Truman, he asked and got congressional approval ahead of time for using troops there to stop aggression.

The Constitution is not only silent on what a president can do in those situations, but is blank on practically everything else in foreign affairs except for saying a president can make a treaty if two-thirds of the Senate approve.

From the earliest days presidents have submitted 1,427 treaties to the Senate which approved 1,247 and flatly rejected 16. Another 141 were withdrawn because they couldn't get a two-thirds vote or for other reasons. Another 23 treaties are pending.

Some of those rejects, like the Versailles Treaty after World War I, changed history. But, since trying to get major treaties through is a tortuous journey and the Constitution does not say presidents can't try other devices, presidents have.

They turned early to "executive agreements." President George Washington was the first to take this road with a postal agreement. Most agreements later had congressional approval, but by a simple majority vote since they were not treaties, avoiding the painful two-thirds process.

And presidents have tried something else: national "commitments" or promises which became American foreign policy. The first big one of its kind was President James Monroe's "doctrine."

Buried deep in a few paragraphs in his annual message to Congress, it simply warned European powers to keep their paws off Latin America. For years it was ignored by Europeans who violated it and by Americans who forgot it. It did not become fixed American policy until the 1890s.

Another doctrine, issued 124 years later by President Truman, changed American history.

With Greece and Turkey under desperate Soviet pressure in 1947, Truman declared it would now be American policy to stop Communist expansion. He did not put a limit on where.

As with the Korean War later, he did not ask direct congressional approval but here, too, Congress backed him by voting the money for men, weapons and goods. He saved Greece and Turkey.

Later, President Dwight D. Eisenhower, like Johnson but unlike Truman, asked and got congressional approval for what he might want to do later with the U.S. armed forces to stop communism.

Congress gave him a go-ahead with the Middle East and Formosa resolutions. And then he used the armed forces in both places. Eisenhower did not get any backwash for what he did in those cases, just as Truman got none for what he did for Greece and Turkey.

Truman and Johnson began to get their clobberings on a big scale only after the Korean and Vietnamese wars began to drag out.

It was President Thomas Jefferson who made the most sensational do-it-yourself deal. In 1803 when he bought Louisiana, as big as the United States at the time, for $15 million, or three cents an acre, from Napoleon.

Nothing in the Constitution said he could do anything like that. And he knew it was an "act beyond the Constitution" but he had to move fast because Napoleon was in a hurry. Then he told a delighted Senate which approved the deal with treaties.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., assistant leader, said nobody was asked to make any commitments. There was no evidence that critics of Johnson's war policies who attended were swayed by what one of them said amounted to a presidential monologue in support of his actions.

Thinks the President Was Brainwashed

By DEREK M. SCHOEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Thurston B. Morton said today President Johnson was "brainwashed" by U.S. military and defense industry leaders into believing the United States could achieve a military solution to the Vietnam war.

The former Republican national chairman said Johnson in turn "brainwashed" the American people during the 1964 presidential campaign by saying the Southeast Asian war should be fought by Asians.

The Kentucky senator, regarded as a foreign policy spokesman for GOP Senate moderates, leveled his strongest attack to date on administration Vietnam policies at the organizational meeting of Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace.

His prepared remarks were released in advance.

They continued a slashing Republican attack on Johnson's policies that touched off an uproar in the Senate Tuesday.

The Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace claims a membership that includes business leaders from 44 states.

Noting that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower warned before leaving office in 1961 of the growing power of a "military-industrial complex," Morton added: "I believe that President Johnson was brainwashed by this power center as early as 1961 when, as vice president, he ventured to Saigon on a fact-finding mission."

Morton's remarks echoed in part Michigan Gov. George Romney's charge that Romney was brainwashed by U.S. military and diplomatic leaders in South Vietnam regarding U.S. involvement in the war.

Romney, a leading prospect for the GOP presidential nomination, said that as a result of what he was told in Saigon he supported the involvement but has now changed his mind.

Morton said he originally backed Johnson's escalation of U.S. troop involvement in the war. But today he said, "I have grave doubts that any military action, then or now, would have decisively influenced the conflict."

Contending a political solution in South Vietnam may already be out of reach, Morton called for a unilateral reduction of the U.S. military involvement, if necessary, to halt the fighting.

Morton's assertion that a political victory may be out of reach in Vietnam was echoed independently by Sen. Milton R. Young, R-S.D., a member of the select committee which oversees the operation of the Central Intelligence Agency.

"There is no possibility of establishing a sound, strong and responsible central government in South Vietnam in the foreseeable future," Young said in a report to his constituents.

A charge by Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., that Johnson put a "false face" on the 1964 Tonkin Gulf resolution by using it as authority to escalate the war brought a retort Tuesday from Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Dirksen said anybody "with a lick of sense" knew it was an open-ended commitment by Dirksen, along with Sens. Russell B. Long, D-La., and Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, accused Johnson's critics of giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

Spending Cut Stock Show Schedule Battle Is Partisan

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — A partisan battle for political advantage seems sure to end up in a sharply pruned federal spending program. But still at issue is who will wield the shears.

Congress will probably decide next week whether to take the initiative in budget-cutting or hand President Johnson a "do-it-yourself" directive.

The stakes are highly political — neither party wants to be blamed for slashing programs popular with the public. But some congressmen say spending must drop before they'll vote for Johnson's proposed income tax hike.

The maneuvering also involves the future paychecks of thousands of government workers in a score of agencies. Their money is tied up in a controversial temporary appropriation measure that would tide them over until Oct. 10.

The affected agencies have been financing temporarily since the new fiscal year started July 1 with their normal annual money bills still in the legislative machinery. Their current money ration runs out at midnight Saturday but they will continue operating on faith that eventually the bills will be paid.

No payless paydays are anticipated by Treasury officials until mid-October and they hope the problem will be resolved by then.

There's no problem next week, they added, because employees will be paid from September funds for work done in September. Virtually everyone paid the following week will fall into the same category.

Technically it will be illegal for many government employees to make a telephone call or take a taxi on business Monday since they would be obligating the government to pay the bill Congress hasn't authorized.

But one official said "common sense, prudence and blind faith will prevail." The government, as it has in similar situations before, will continue to operate, he said.

The House Appropriations Committee tried to get unanimous consent Thursday for passage of the 10-day financing bill after the House earlier rejected a 30-day plan because it couldn't consider a Republican alternative.

Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, top Republican on the committee, objected to immediate action Thursday because the parliamentary situation wouldn't permit consideration of his alternative proposal.

Bow and all 168 Republicans on record want to add to the bill a directive to the President to cut $5 billion from government spending this year, with the President deciding where to cut.

Says 'Lack of Order, Crime in Streets', Top Political Issue Pesticide Is Blamed for 17 Deaths

By CHARLES WHALEN
EUREKA, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan of California says the "lack of law and order, and crime in our streets" is probably the top political issue in the country.

Reagan said at an airport news conference Thursday in Peoria that the outbreak of disorders in the cities probably overshadows the Vietnam war as an issue.

The war, he said, "is definitely an issue, but I'm not sure it's No. 1."

Reagan later returned to his alma mater, Eureka College, to dedicate a library.

At the airport Reagan took issue with a charge by a fellow Republican, Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, that President Johnson has been brainwashed by U.S. military and industry leaders on the conduct of the war.

"It's hard for me to believe the President has been brainwashed by the military when the evidence is that their advice has been consistently ignored," Reagan said. "We should be heeding the advice of our military leaders more."

The California governor said there was no political significance to his Illinois visit. And he repeatedly denied that he would seek the Republican presidential nomination or that he was interested in running for vice president.

Asked who he felt is closest to getting the GOP presidential nomination, Reagan replied that polls show former Vice President Richard M. Nixon "has the biggest handle on that bat right now."

At the library dedication in Eureka, 20 miles east of Peoria, Reagan called on youth to help "redirect our nation's course into the paths of freedom and morality and high principle."

But he defended his generation's accomplishments. "We have to restudy some of our social legislation, legislation that meant well, but has failed in its goals or has created greater problems than the ones it was meant to cure," Reagan declared.

"Is it enough to have material things? Aren't liberty and morality and integrity and high principles and a sense of responsibility more important?"

"It's hard for me to believe the President has been brainwashed by the military when the evidence is that their advice has been consistently ignored," Reagan said. "We should be heeding the advice of our military leaders more."

The California governor said there was no political significance to his Illinois visit. And he repeatedly denied that he would seek the Republican presidential nomination or that he was interested in running for vice president.

Asked who he felt is closest to getting the GOP presidential nomination, Reagan replied that polls show former Vice President Richard M. Nixon "has the biggest handle on that bat right now."

At the library dedication in Eureka, 20 miles east of Peoria, Reagan called on youth to help "redirect our nation's course into the paths of freedom and morality and high principle."

But he defended his generation's accomplishments. "We have to restudy some of our social legislation, legislation that meant well, but has failed in its goals or has created greater problems than the ones it was meant to cure," Reagan declared.

"Is it enough to have material things? Aren't liberty and morality and integrity and high principles and a sense of responsibility more important?"

Frost Today Earliest in 21 Years

Hope residents and the rest of Arkansas shivered in 35 degree weather this morning and for the time of year it was the coldest most folks could recall.

The University of Arkansas Branch Experiment Station, which is the official weather recorder for this section, reported it was the coldest in years.

The light frost was certainly the earliest in 21 years, according to Station Manager Cecil Biddle. Mr. Biddle said the station had no way of telling if an earlier frost occurred. He said station records indicated that the first frost of the year usually came around October 15. Only killing frosts are recorded.

The frost today was not a killing one, according to Mr. Biddle.

The high temperature for the 24-hour period was 66 degrees, the station reported.

Search on for Mena Burglars

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — Armed policeman with bloodhounds combed a wooded area near Texarkana Thursday for two men suspected of burglarizing a Mena, Ark., bank and Supermarket and taking more than $7,800 in coins and $6,600 in cashier's checks.

FBI agents joined in the hunt after filing charges at Fort Smith Thursday against Louis Ray Jones and Billy Don Thompson, both in their mid 20s, in connection with the burglaries. Officers said the men were former convicts at the Angola State Prison in Louisiana.

Texarkana sheriff's deputies said two men fled in an automobile near the manhunt area early Thursday. The deputies, finding a shovel in the car, went to a pile of fresh dirt and found the take from the Arkansas burglaries.

The money was in two large metal boxes and three sacks, officers said.

U.S. Single Missiles Are Being Converted to Multiple Warheads

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most U.S. single-bomb nuclear missiles will be converted in five years to hydra-headed weapons capable of striking several enemy cities simultaneously, Pentagon sources say.

By 1972, according to a rough breakdown outlined by Pentagon sources, the current force of 1,710 missiles will be packing up to 7,500 or more deliverable nuclear warheads.

This huge increase of atomic power was ordered by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to counter the Soviet Union's antimissile system and to insure that its accelerated offensive missile production is more than matched.

The move toward huge numbers of nuclear warheads reflects the McNamara philosophy that the best defense is a good offense.

The $5 billion antimissile system announced by the Pentagon chief last week is designed to thwart any attack by Red China in the early 1970s.

McNamara considers it virtually impossible to establish a missile shield good enough to stop the swarms of decoy-ridden warheads which a technologically sophisticated enemy could unleash.

Dr. John S. Foster, the Pentagon's chief scientist, said testimony before Congress last spring that the U.S. strategy for countering a Soviet missile defense would be to overwhelm it.

Temperatures Hit Record in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Record-breaking low temperatures and damaging frost hit Arkansas Thursday night as a large cold high pressure system continued to dominate the state's weather.

A record low was recorded at Little Rock during the night as the temperature fell to 38 degrees. The coldest spot in the state, however, was Gilbert with 29 degrees.

Warmer temperatures are expected tonight in West Arkansas while forecasts indicated another cool night with the chance of frost in the eastern half of the state.

Texarkana reported the highest temperature Thursday at 38 degrees and Harrison reached only 57 for the coolest maximum. There was no rain reported in the state Thursday.

However, the early frost caused damage to soybean and cotton crops in Cross County.

More Raids on Haiphong Reported

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported today fresh air raids on the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong and a surge of ground fighting in South Vietnam, particularly in the important northern provinces threatened by Communist troops massed near the demilitarized zone.

Navy planes from the carrier Intrepid flashed over Haiphong Thursday to blast 16 anti-aircraft and missile sites. Right behind came waves of jets from the Coral Sea to hit the vital rail and road bridge in the city's southwestern section for the seventh time.

The headquarters reported for the first time this month "no significant shelling" along the demilitarized border with North Vietnam, where U.S. Marines are dug in across possible Communist invasion routes.

But heavy fighting was listed in the northernmost 1st Corps zone and 72 Communist soldiers were reported killed.

Smaller fights dotted the nation. In the Mekong delta south of Saigon, guerrillas ambushed and burned a U.S. Navy patrol boat—the first loss of one of the river boats.

Despite marginal weather over North Vietnam, Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 150 combat missions. With the exception of the Haiphong raid, most hit at supply targets on routes leading south from Hanoi to the DMZ. Fliers reported hitting 144 river barges and a number of trucks, rail cars and locomotives.

Pilots said their bombs dropped at least one span of Haiphong's southwestern rail and highway bridge, one of four main bridges leading from the north's biggest port. All have been previously hit and all but one are known to have been severed. The fourth, a rail bridge on the northwestern edge of the city has been heavily damaged.

Heavy raids on Haiphong, have been carried on whenever the weather permitted since Sept. 11 in an effort to strangle routes leading from the port and back up supplies.

Sees Growth in UA, LRU Merger

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Carey V. Stabler, president of Little Rock University, said Thursday if the LRU-University of Arkansas merger fell through, the U of A could locate an undergraduate school on property the U of A owns in western Little Rock.

Stabler said he hoped, however, the merger between the two universities would be considered by the special legislative session Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller says he is going to call.

Rockefeller has indicated that funds should be found to finance a merger before bringing it up for discussion.

"That I expect the special session to consider it is much more than I could dare say," Stabler said.

Stabler said that if the U of A did establish an undergraduate school in west Little Rock, "it is conceivable that a problem might be posed for LRU's rate of expansion and improvement of academic standing."

Warrant Is Issued in Rape Case

ALTUS, Ark. (AP) — A bench warrant was issued Thursday for Donald S. Conli, 35, for questioning in the rape of a 6-year-old girl near here Tuesday, Franklin County authorities said.

No address was listed on the warrant.

Officers found an abandoned car at Clarksville late Tuesday which fitted the description of one seen near the scene, and it was taken to Franklin County to see if it could be identified further.

Sheriff W. D. Cober said the girl was walking home from school with four other children when a man jumped from some bushes, and grabbed an older girl first.

She broke free and all the children ran screaming down the road, Cober said. The sheriff said the 6-year-old dropped one of her books and, when she stopped to pick it up, the man caught her and dragged her into the bushes.

The child underwent surgery at Fort Smith Thursday and was in serious condition.
